

WORKSHOP

MENTORING AND SPONSORSHIP

to enhance your own career and the careers of those you lead

Identifying and nurturing appropriate support, through well-matched mentors and well-connected sponsors, is increasingly essential for executive women leaders' success.

This half-day workshop provides you with a deeper understanding of these critical career development tools.

You'll learn how to effectively engage in these relationships, either as mentor, mentee, sponsor or sponsee, and how to promote a culture that values and supports these connections within your organisation.

The workshop will cover the differences between mentoring and sponsorship, the benefits of each tool, techniques for identifying and nurturing talent, and strategies for expanding professional networks within and outside your own organisation.

Join internationally accredited executive coach Karyn Brinkley for this two-hour workshop that will enhance your confidence and presence in the networks you need to make a difference.

2 HOURS, LIFE CHANGING

- Mentor vs sponsor: which do you need to have? Which do you want to be?
- Identifying the important qualities you seek and offer in a support relationship
- Designing, developing and leveraging the networks you need
- Common obstacles to effective and successful mentoring and sponsorship relationships — and how to avoid or overcome them.
- Encouraging a healthy network culture in your organisation
